We publish this morning the first interest of the constitution, planted which the requirements of the constitution, planted myself upon the principles then amounted by him, which I advocated not be 19 h of December last. I believed that he positions taken thou by Gen, Jackson, and however, and the constitution of the Constitution, and the ordy doctrine of substantially in the text. The speech, which we will conclude in the Journal of tomorrow, is throughout a masterly dasplay of common sense, informed by heroic patriotism. It tevershody read it.

The Courier, referring to the speech of Mr. Lincoln at Indianapolis and to a portion of our comments thereon, says:

Mr. Lincoln has proceeded "another stage on its normer to Wa shington, with at disavising described in rective that I have been unitormly, from his deverment, will result in its overthrow and destruction for, as a fundamental principle of this government, will result in its overthrow and destruction, for, as was have seen already, a few of the States are crambling and falling off.

The Courier in this matter is hardly just to the puts or no itself. We will endeavor in the first possible manner to be just to both.
